Castle Square Company in "Faust."

The all too brief session of grand opera came to a brilliant conclusion last night at English's, when the Castle Square Opera Company sang Gounod's universal favorite. "Faust." a work that is distinctive in respect of melody, harmony and instrumentation. The audience was a large one, and, in marked contrast to the assembly of the evening before, it was not backward in bestowing applause when applause was due. the Park with a matinee this afternoon. The music lover who has not been completely satisfied with the performances of this splendid organization must indeed be hard to please. "Faust" was superbly pre-be offered by Manager Savage-which is saying a good deal-the chorus had not been heard to so great advantage in any of lar one. the other operas, and, scenically, the production was magnificent.

Miss Rennyson was as charming as Marmerite as she was impressive the evening before as Elsa in "Lohengrin." She may climax in the prison trio. It is unfortunate that Manager Savage has not more sopranos upon whom he can depend, for, during the absence from the company of Miss Norwood, who continues ill, Miss Rennyson is being overworked. It would seem that there must be many sopranos to whom the role of Marguerite would mean advancement. To this artist the assumption of it is almost retrogression. She is needed for the heroic figures of the music dramas which the company presents, and for which she is vocally, and in every other way, best suited. But she can sing any role that is assigned her, her versatility being the head of a big company presenting re-extraordinary, and, as a result of her abil-vivals of several Shakspearian plays. ity and her willingness, she is undertaking almost too much. Her charming interpretation of Marguerite last night was received with evidences of the sincerest appreciation by her audience. Joseph Sheehan sang the role of Faust in his satisfying lyric tenor and acted with more fervor than he did the character of Manrico, in "Il Trovatore." His voice is remarkably pleasing and splendidly adapted to the tuneful music of Gounod. The timber is superior and the placing easy and good. Mr. Boyle appeared as Mephisto, and he "played the devil" as the part has not been played the devil as the part has not been played here in opera since the days of Franz Vetta, of the old American Opera Company. Mr. Boyle presented a big, ro-bust Mephisto of the Eduard de Reszke type of infernal manhood and he sang in far better voice than that which marked his work in the other operas. His per-formance was really a delightful surprise, for he not only sang the part well, but acted it well, too, handling the grim humor with admirable effect. The Valentine of Mr. Goff was excellent, the baritone giv-Ramey as Martha took good care of these smaller parts with plentitude of tone and spirit. The opera was finely sung from beginnig to end, and no audience of the short season was more thoroughly pleased. It is gratifying to record that the Castle Square Company's season here has proved a success financially. It is already well known that it has proved a great success artistically. It is thought that arrange- the Jordan-Grosscup wedding, which ocments will be made by which the organiza- | curred Tuesday. tion will come again next season for a week's engagement, and it is devoutly to wished that such may be the case, as the presentation of a series of operas on the adequate scale that has characterized the performnces in the season just closed cannot help but be the means of substan-

As acted and sung by Miss Ivell, the cigarette-making gypsy was a flash of lightning from a summer sky-a creature of hate, of love, of jealousy, of gayety, and-of downright wantoness. She did not attempt to envelop Carmen's true nature in a mantel of poetry as many opera singers have done before her-on the contrary she emphasized it at every opportunity, and shading of the melodramatic scenes would have been advisable at times, in accordance with a truly artistic conception of the part, but Miss Ivell was "out for blood," and she played Carmen as she thought the charadmirable, aside from occasional "throaty'

The Escamillo of Mr. Carrier was picturesque and inspiring, and the music of the Toreador was well suited to his fine baritone voice. Miss Watrous, a young woman who has just recently been elevated from the ranks of the chorus, sang the soprano role of Michaela, and her modest, gentle presence was well fitted to the part. Columbus, O., Box taken with severe headache, then cramps in the stomach, and my food would not digest, then kidney and liver trouble and my back got weak so I could scarcely get around. At last I had all the complaints at once, the more I doctored the worse I got until six years passed. I had become so poorly I could only walk in the house by the aid of a chair, and I got so thin I had given up to die, thinking that I could not be cured. Then one of my neighbors said, 'Take my advice and take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and make a new man out of yourself.' The first bottle helped me so I thought I would get another, and after I had taken eight bottles in about six weeks, I was weighed, and found I had gained twenty-seven (27) pounds. I am as stout and healthy to-day, I think, as I ever was."
